George Billis Gallery is pleased to announce Aaron Apsley and his work at the New York location. This exhibition will run from March 29 through April 23, 2016. The opening reception will be held at the George Billis Gallery located at 525 West 26th Street between 10th and 11th avenues on Thursday, March 31 from 6-8pm. This will be his first solo exhibition at the George Billis Gallery.

Speaking about his work Aaron says, "I've been painting and drawing my entire life, usually just observing and depicting things around me that I find interesting or beautiful. When I moved to New York, I was limited by the amount of workspace in my apartment so I decided to focus on working mostly in watercolors. I am working on an ongoing series of watercolor street scenes of New York, because I am so amazed by the great variety and scale of the architecture in the city. Inspired by a lifelong interest in botany, I have recently been concentrating on the field of botanical illustration. I began by painting my own houseplants from life and now I am always scouring the city for interesting tropical and desert plants to use as reference."

Aaron graduated from SCAD (Savannah, GA) in 2013 and currently lives and works in New York City. His work has been featured online by The Sill and The Mag.

The George Billis Gallery marks its 20th year in the Chelsea Art district and its sister gallery is located in the burgeoning gallery district of Culver City in Los Angeles.
